Drayton Valley's new bowling alley, the Twilight Bowl, under the management of Rod Gervais opened this week. This fine building is a credit to the community. Five alleys will serve bowlers of the community and a lunch counter has been installed for the convenience of the bowlers. The lunch counter is run by Rod's sister, Pat. The building is 35' x 117' and cost almost $25,000, to build. It was built by Bichholz Construction.

League play will start on September 11th. Rod says that bowlers should get their name in before that time if they wish to play in the leagues.

On Friday, August 25th, a pre-season party and dance was held for bowlers in the Hall, with Valley Rhythms supplying music for the occasion.

GYMKHANA NEWS

By Linda Cairnes

Sunday, August 27th, saw a number of club members take off on a trail ride, west of the Pembina River from the Mr. and Mrs. Woods place. Mrs. A. Hyde was in charge of the arrangements for the ride and also conducted the ride and also conducted the ride and also conducted the ride.

On August 27th, Sunday, will see a number of the Larix Gymkhana members in competition against all the Edmonton and district clubs in Edmonton at the Fort Trail Gymkhana grounds. There will be the elimination trials for the right to compete at the Edmonton Grandstand September 4th in the Championship Gymkhana, at which time the Queen will be crowned.

Miss Lucille Brown is representing the Larix Gymkhana Club and will compete for the Queen title against several other young ladies. Each adult or junior rider will come to the rodeo for Lucille. We would like to see all of Drayton Valley support our Queen Candidate. One ticket admits you to the Grandstand for the show, gives you a chance on a saddle and gives Lucille an extra vote.

The September Gymkhana will be held at the Rodeo Grounds on Sunday September 10th at two P.M. and the following Sunday, September 11th, a trail ride on some such event will be held for the Junior members in order that they may be judged for trail procedure and horsemanship.

AQUARIUM NEWS

Just a few blocks apart on public display in Calgary are a live baby elephant and a pair of frisky elephant-nosed tropical fish, respective gifts of the Calgary Gyo Club and wives of members of the Club. The creatures typify the service club's official elephant mascot.

"Oyo", the young elephant was given to the Calgary Zoo a little more than a year ago by the Calgary Gyo Club and since that time has become one of the zoo's major attractions.

Meanwhile, the Gyo Club of Calgary - not to be confused by their husbands made efforts to obtain a suitable fish symbol to denote the Calgary Aquarium, located with in a few blocks of the zoo at 9th Ave. and 16th St. S.E.

The only aquatic species with an elephant connotation was found to be the elephant nosed fish, native of the Congo, where political unrest was curtailing export shipments.

Recently, however, Mrs. W.D. Smith, past president of the Calgary Gyo Club, attended a Gyo convention in San Francisco and while there saw an elephant nosed fish on display at an import shop. The specimen was the first to reach North America in many months.

The fish was purchased by the Gyo Club and last week was formally presented to the Calgary Aquarium by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Stewart Colpitts, Gyo Club president, on behalf of the club.

The elephant nosed fish are less than four inches in length but have an extended lower jaw formation which has a trunk-like appearance.

The Hon. Michael Starr, Minister of Labour has announced that the Federal Government intends to continue its assistance in encouraging municipalities to undertake Municipal Winter work programs. In his announcement he emphasized that the program would be broadened to include additional classes of projects. Only school and hospital will be now exempted. All other projects will be covered.

This program has worked well in the past two winters and has provided many thousands of jobs. It has also encouraged municipalities to get these projects done in the slack employment period that is the winter months.

The plan covers projects and work done between the 15th of October and the end of April. Under it the Federal Government pays 50% of the labour costs. It is expected that the province

District Agriculturalist.

ATTENTION HOG PRODUCERS

Alberta farmers, planning to stay in the hog business, are urged to take advantage of the present opportunity to buy good young hogs from top scoring and top grading R.O.P. sows. Unless these animals, which can be bought direct from the breeder or through the Swine Improvement Policy of the Department of Agriculture, are sold immediately, many will go to slaughter.

A.J. Charnetki, Live Stock Supervisor with the Alberta Department of Agriculture, recommends that farmers, who will need hogs within the next two to three months, take advantage of the very reasonable prices asked by breeders for top quality animals at this time of year. Later in the fall when every hog man in the market for a good hog, prices could easily be twice that which they are today. Hog producers should also keep in mind that the quality of breeding stock can and does influence the market quality of pigs by more than 75 per cent.

At the moment, the difference in price between a 300 pound grade A pig and a 300 pound grade C pig (150 pounds dressed) amounts to $7.50. While this may not seem very much on one animal, it amounts to $750, on 100 hogs. Mr. Charnetki points out that there are not many hog producers in this province who can afford to ignore such revenue losses or dollar leakages.

Under the Swine Improvement Policy commercial breeders may obtain assistance of ten dollars on the purchase of a pure bred boar costing seventy or more dollars. To qualify for assistance farmers must make application on a form which is available from any office. Boars are purchased by Mr. Charnetki and shipped prepaid to the applicants nearest shipping point.

Handling and Feeding of a Young Breeding Boar

Most young boars are untrained as breeders and therefore should be given proper management. It is very important that a young boar should be kept separate from other pigs. Under no circumstances should he be mixed with a group of old sows. Past experience has shown that this practice often results in the boar becoming a non-breeder.

Twice daily feeding is recommended. Feed may consist of a mixture of 1/3 oats and 2/3 barley, or oats, barley and wheat and should contain 10% protein concentrate. Where concentrate is fed in lower quantities add 1/2% ground lime stone and 1/2% of iodized salt (1/2 lb. of each in 100 lbs. of feed.) Also a teaspoon of fish oil per day is very desirable during the winter months if skim milk is plentiful use it, otherwise use protein concentrate. Give plenty of drinking water and feed daily a feed of green, leafy alfalfa or other legume hay. Summer pasture is most desirable for all breeding stock. Use alfalfa or a mixture of grain. In addition to good dry sleeping quarters, provide a small outdoor pen for exercise.

CANADA POST OFFICE

AS PARCEL POST RATES CUT BY POST OFFICE

Reductions averaging approximately 17 per cent in domestic air parcel post rates were announced on July 6th, 1961 by Postmaster General William Hamilton. This is the first general revision of air parcel post rates since the inception of this service more than eight years ago. Rates on international air parcel post will also be cut, in the first general revision of these rates since 1953.

In making the announcement, Mr. Hamilton referred to the rate cut as a sweeping step forward in operating an efficient long-haul parcel post service. He explained that the new rates reflect a gradual decrease in basic air costs of mail transportation, a fact that the Post Office was passing this saving on to the mailing public.

The Postmaster General said his department felt that because of the vast distances involved in the building of Canadian parcel post, it was necessary that air transportation be made as economical and as efficient as possible. He felt that the new, more attractive rates would result in an increase in volume for this type of parcel service.

The new domestic rates were scheduled to go into effect September 1st. The new international rates would probably be in operation in August, Mr. Hamilton said.

Concurrently with the reduction in international air parcel post rates, Mr. Hamilton said there would be a general increase in surface rates for international parcel post for the first time since 1953. The increase was due to higher handling costs, would vary according to country of destination and weights of parcels. POST OFFICE ENCOURAGES "PRINTED IN CANADA" MAILING.

Changes in postal regulations designed to discourage a misleading appearance of Canadian origin in foreign printed and advertising material brought to Canada for mailing were announced recently by Postmaster General William Hamilton.

Under existing postal regulations, to avoid placing postage stamps on each of many identical pieces of printed advertising material, bulk postage may be paid at the time of mailing. A permit obtained from Post Office is printed on the envelope as an indication that this has been done. Such permits are termed "postage-paid-in-cash".

In somewhat similar fashion "business reply election" are made available to prepay postage on business reply post cards. Until the present, no restrictions had been placed on the use of these special permits for material printed outside Canada. Under the new regulations, which go into effect October 1, the Post Office will no longer make available either type of permit for material abroad for mailing in Canada.

In announcing the change, Postmaster General Hamilton said that in the past some foreign advertisement had used Canadian postage-paid-in-cash dies to give the material a "made in Canada" appearance. The inclusion in foreign periodicals and advertising materials of business-reply cards bearing Canada Post Office permit numbers had heightened this impression, he said. In future, the post office will decline to issue such election to foreign publishers or advertisers unless written assurance is furnished that the electro will be used only on mail matter printed in Canada.

The change in regulations coincides with a recent announcement by the Postmaster General that, effective August 1, the postage rate on foreign publications mailed in Canada would be increased from an average of about two and one-half cents per pound to a flat rate of five cents per pound.

Mr. Hamilton said that the rate and regulation changes had been under study for some time by the post office and that their implementation also conformed with recommendations of the Royal Commission on Publications recently tabled in the House of Commons.

Looking at Recreation

By: Michael Gensley,
Recreation Director.

NO EASY WAY

Recently a local youngster came up with the very interesting question: "What is the easiest and quickest way to get into perfect playing condition for the coming football season?" The young fellow was looking for a quick way but most of all for an easy way to reach top-notch physical condition and as far as the latter was concerned he might have as well been looking for the legendary pot of gold at the rainbow's end. There may be some methods of training that will develop physical stamina, strength, endurance and all around sound conditioning faster than others but there certainly is no more easy way to improve the physical powers of the body than there is an easy way to improve the mathematical powers of the mind.

All sports and especially contact sports demand a generous degree of physical fitness. A successful player in any field of athletics must possess a sound body and keen reflexes. In the case of Canadian Football, possibly the most brutal of all contact competition, proper conditioning is of prime importance. In baseball and even in ice hockey as it is played today, a big, strong, husky fellow might get by with a minimum of conditioning. Naturally his playing power in this case would be far below par and he would be indeed making a farce of himself and of the game however, he would not be endangering life and limb to a great degree. A boy or young man set on taking up football, however, must meet the required standards of physical fitness or he is asking for grief. Here the poorly conditioned athlete not only hampers the game for himself and everyone else but, what is worse, sooner or later he is going to get hurt—seriously hurt. My honest advice to any young fellow who plans to play football or any other contact sport would be to consider the matter seriously and should he decide that he has not the time, the energy, the will power, the courage or the ambition necessary to persevere in such training that will develop satisfactory physical conditioning to do justice to himself and the game, then he would act wisely to stay clear of athletic competition altogether.

In this modern day and age when gadgets of every type have been designed by scientists and engineers to produce a maximum of results with a minimum of effort, one would wonder why some great designer has not come up with a push-button conditioner. In other words why has someone not come up with an "easy way" to get into top shape for athletic or any other competition? Indeed it has been tried, but to date none of the modern "take it easy" prescriptions have been in any way successful. It is still work and sweat backed up by courage and blind determination. In our soft, plush, easy-come-easy-go, life of this twentieth century methods of physical conditioning seem more luckless than ever before. To correct the illusion, however, most every phase of life is easier than a half a century ago except the problem of physical conditioning is still work much the same as it was in Sparta and Rome which as we have to admit it, there are no shortcuts for a systematic method of exercise in the promotion of bodily powers and good physical condition. There is no royal road to the peak. There is no such thing as a "easy way".

FOOTBALL HIGHLIGHTS

The faint warnings that summer if almost gone seem to be getting louder and louder with each passing day. With the passing of the warm season our recreation and athletic program will be almost completely revolutionized. A part from a fairly steady and at times exciting baseball program the local recreation program has been quite open during the past two months. Most activities clubs and organizations will, however, get going again within the next few weeks and as it were we will have a brand new program under way. In the field of local athletics, the grand old game of baseball will be replaced by that colorful and expanding called Canadian Football. We will trade the old diamond for a brand new gridiron, a fast ball for a forward pass and a homerun for a touchdown.

Proximate preparations are already well under way for the fast approaching grid season. A good amount of new equipment has been purchased and the necessary repairs are being made up by paraphernalia. Henry Dedy made a portion of land available and a fine football field is being developed by the Town of Drayton Valley. Coaching staffs for the different teams are being organized, schedules are being drawn up and detailed overall plans for the coming season are being discussed and finalized.

From a survey taken early last spring it would seem that we will have nearly two hundred prospective ball players turning out when the first call to action comes on September 5th. I expect that this figure will expand considerably especially during the first couple of weeks when training camps will be quite stiff to say the least. It is my guess, however, that when all is said and done, and we are set for the season's excitement there will be about 150 boys ready for action. Right now it would seem that we will have three Pee Wee teams competing in an intra-town league with the beautiful Foster Transport Trophy at stake. The Ballroom captured the prize last year and will be defending their honors against the Foster Stampers and the D.V. Lions. There will be another intra-town league at the Bantam level composed of three teams, the Blue Bombers, the Rough Riders and the BC Tots. Two un-named teams will represent Drayton Valley in off-season competition, one at the Bantam and the other at the Juvenile level.

When all is said and done things look pretty bright for the coming season. The program is under the direction of Don Larabaster, Harold Townsend and Bruce Ca direction of Don Larabaster, Harold Townsend and Bruce Ca direction of Don Larabaster, Harold Townsend and Bruce Ca

WHAT ABOUT BASKETBALL CLASSES

I have been approached by a few people of late on the matter of organizing basketball classes here in Drayton Valley during the coming indoor season. Personally I am all for it and I think that every effort should be made to introduce this emotional and classical art to the youngsters of our town. It would seem to me that the one detour to the organization and to the success of such a club would be the lack of a suitable instructor. Qualified basketball instruction is very scarce indeed and I would strongly suggest that in one case an instructor would have to be brought in from the city on a weekly or bi-weekly basis.

Plans for a ballster class were discussed last year but due to a general lack of interest and a suitable supervisor the idea was dropped. At that time we had a qualified instructor here in town, however, due to poor health he was not too enthusiastic about taking on the responsibility of leading a class in such a delicate and complicated activity. Now I am perfectly willing to give it another try. Any of you parents who would be interested in having your children take basketball during the coming months please get in touch with me at the earliest opportunity and air your views on the matter. If enough interest is shown we will call a meeting at the earliest possible date and get going on our organizational work. I certainly would like to see this thing take root, grow and develop however, so much depends on public response whether there will be ballster in Drayton Valley or not.

WEIGHTLIFTING

There also has been some suggestions around town regarding the formation of a weightlifting or physical cultural club. Here is one outfit, that if organized certainly would serve in purpose to good advantage. It is still work and sweat backed up by courage and blind determination. In our soft, plush, easy-come-easy-go, life of this twentieth century methods of physical conditioning seem more luckless than ever before. To correct the illusion, however, most every phase of life is easier than a half a century ago except the problem of physical conditioning is still work much the same as it was in Sparta and Rome which as we have to admit it, there are no shortcuts for a systematic method of exercise in the promotion of bodily powers and good physical condition. The Chapel Hour "GET LOST"

Taken From The Gospel Trumpet By S. D. Turnbull.

"GET LOST" is a slang expression meaning "get out of my way." The other day I heard a new way of saying "get lost" from one of my pupils at school. The expression was "go me!" This is the sort of thing a distracted parent is likely to say to a bohemian offspring when he acts like Dennis the Menace.

The term, however, has a more serious meaning, for it has to do with the whole business of being a Christian. I think the reason many people are so miserable is just this: They cannot or will not lose themselves.

Logan Pessall Smith, an American writer who spent many years in England, made this entry in his diary: "What a bore it is to wake up every morning the same person." He, like millions of others, needed to "get lost" helpfully and creatively. This is what Jesus is saying in Mark 8:36: "For whoever will save his life shall lose it but whoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it."

Let us consider a few practical ways of becoming lost helpfully and creatively. How about getting lost in a good book? What a wealth of inspiration, widening horizons, and mental stimulation await us in the world of good literature! Yet many people fill their minds with literary drap and trash. Many people substitute TV and radio for the reading of good literature.

While talking about getting lost in good literature, what about the world's best seller, the Bible? The Bible can provide us with words that take us out of this world and then bring us back to it with God's word and thoughts. To get lost in the Bible is to find the Bible and ourselves.

What about getting lost through prayer? Do we really believe the promise of Jesus, "And it shall be given you as you seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you" (Matt. 7:7)? "The effective fervent prayer of a righteous man avails much" (Jas. 5:16).

Prayer is a great power, but I am afraid we are not using it. Full prayer power has never been tried in any church. If we want to see wonders of divine power and grace brought about in the place of failure, disappointment, and weakness, let the entire church answer the standing challenge of Jesus in regard to prayer.

What about getting lost through love? Love is the power to obtain Jesus said, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me" (Matt. 25:40). This, said he, will be the great test.

Jesus said to Peter, "Lowest thou me?" He was saying in a sense, "Get lost! Get lost! Love and service."

"Go the second mile," said Jesus. "Get lost in service and good deeds even to your enemies."

No man is an island to himself; neither is a Christian church. Some one has defined the church as the fellowship of the concerned who care. There is no great need today than Christians who are really willing to follow Christ to the ends of the earth. Too many of our churches have become comfortable, middle-class social clubs instead of a group of people willing to lose themselves for Christ.

Being a young and fast-growing town, most everything in Drayton Valley is comparatively new. The latest of the "news" is the spanking new bowling alley just being completed beside the Town Hall on 11th Avenue. The building will be known as Twilight Bowling and will be under the management of Rod Jarvis. The newly premises will be opening very shortly and will have five line alleys available at all times. The front and the interior of the building are exceptionally colorful presenting a striking array of contrasting colors which should be favorable to bowling averages if you are not allergic to the bright ones. All taken into consideration Rod's Bowling Centre will be as fine and modern as any in a town of this size across the country. The bowling faithful in the "V" Valley can look forward to the best season ever in the very pleasant surroundings of "Twilight Bowl".

NEWS AND VIEWS

The Larist Gymkhana Club will be holding a dance on September 22 and 23 in the D.V. Recreation Centre. Football training gets under way officially on September 5th. Next Tuesday evening at 8:00 P.M. and the season opens at least for local inter-town squads on Sept. 10th, September 16 - So it won't be long now until the "Old Figgins" will be on the receiving end. Have you been out to take a look at the new gold mine? Sure looks like the real thing - a nine hole course will be completed for now with an excellent chance of expanding to eighteen within a year or so. — It's a great town. Never a dull moment.

FOOD AND DRUG ACT GUARDS CONSUMER

In 1977 Canada's worst suspicions about some of the food crossing to store counters were confirmed. Certain low-priced teas, it was revealed, owed their dubious tastes to dried leaves faced with Prussian blue - not to mention salt, starch, and food sweepings. Some coffee turned out to be less than pure Brazilian. The roasted wheat, peas, beans and bread crumbs found in it had obviously been added closer to home. As for spices!

These and other unsupporting discoveries came as the result of a new piece of federal legislation. The "Act to Impose Licence Duties on the Compounders of Spirits and to Prevent the Adulteration of Food, Drink and Drugs" has been passed in 1874 but it was three years later before the four analysts appointed to implement it turned in their first annual report. Of the 180 samples of varied foods that had been examined, 93 turned out to be adulterated.

Eighty years later the Food and Drug Directorate of the Department of National Health and Welfare, developing from those modest beginnings, was examining 30,000 samples annually. Where each of the original analysts, working on a fee basis (not to exceed $2,000 a year) had been allowed up to $300 for equipment, millions of dollars had been invested in modern laboratories. There was a large central group in Ottawa and five regional units strategically located across the country.

Adulteration was still a problem but to frequency had been reduced to a point where, even among suspected samples, the frequency was 5% as against the original figure of 52%. Moreover, the modern days was working against a set of standards where the early examinations had had no starting point other than whether a product carried a threat to health or to life itself.

It was obvious, of course, from the kinds of adulteration discovered in the early days, that a standard was not imperative to its detection at that time. Today's adulteration is something else again. A pound of butter may be delicious in flavor and present no danger to health but, if it has been diluted with cheaper vegetable fat Food and Drug Directorate is interested. Butter must contain only milk fat. It is the Directorate's task to see that the consumer gets what he is led to believe he is buying.

To do this it is assisted by the fruits of modern science. In the Food Chemistry Section of the Ottawa laboratories is a spectrograph which can detect adulteration in very small quantities. In many instances if only an ounce of adulterant existed in thirty tons of an otherwise pure commodity, the spectrograph would catch it. Adulteration in least quantities would scarcely be profitable!

Today's Food and Drug Act covers a field as broad and intricate as modern living. It establishes standards, regulates packaging, labelling and advertising, controls the use of remedies for certain designated diseases, specifies drugs to be sold only on prescription.

Its work is directly connected with the protection of the individual Canadian's health. "In a very real sense," Hon. J. Waldo Monro pointed out recently, "The Food and Drug Administration reaches into the kitchen cupboard and medicine chest of every home in Canada".

While Food and Drug inspectors, located from coast to coast, are the vigilant watchmen of the Act, its ever-increasing effectiveness has been rooted in the cooperation of the Canadian producer and consumer alike. Each has recognized it as an instrument conceived for mutual benefit.

A CHIEF IS MADE

Climaxing the four day annual 1961 Pow Wow of the Oak River Sioux Indian tribe at the Grinwald, Manitoba reservation was the colourful ceremony of making Mr. Milton C. Holden an honorary Indian Chief.

Before the huge crowd of Indians and palefaces, in the twilight of a perfect summer evening, Jim McKay, the oldest Chief on the reserve, "crowned" Mr. Holden - who is President of The Wewassee Mutual Insurance Company - with an ornate headdress of vividly coloured eagle feathers and named him "Tatanka Mani", translated "Walking Buffalo" - the symbol of food and life to the Indian.

Here we see the exchange of puffs on the ceremonial Pipe of Peace.

In his address the new Chief reminded the audience that we are indebted to the Indians for contribution to our language, and for giving us names for many of our towns and villages. Being now an Indian, and at the same time still a white man, he was in a position to help bridge the gap between the two races. He pleaded for a better understanding between the two and urged the Indians to take all possible advantage of the educational opportunities that are being offered to them today.

Then being led into the outdoor arena by two colourful y-clad dancers, the new Chief received his initiation to the traditional Indian dances accompanied by the steady beat of the drummers, and the wailing of the singers. Gradually, as the tempo and spirit increased, more and more Indians - from tender years to the very old - interspersed with a few palefaces, entered the dancing ring, bowing and twisting into grotesque shapes, the dancers continued with unabated and unbelievable vivacity for hour after hour.

Seldom indeed do palefaces have the opportunity to witness such a colourful yet solemn ceremony.

ON THE EDGE OF DISASTER

Posts and other sensitive people tell us that if we wish to live fully we should always be aware that life is lived on the edge of disaster.

Disaster struck our normal placid lives last week when our pony, Miss (short for Dynamite), took sick with the colic. We were all fond of Miss, and my daughter, Kathy, who was crazy over him—but she didn't quite realize it until Miss was nearly lost.

Today, life is well again, and doubly loved and enjoyed. Having nursed him to survival through one dangerous night, he'll always mean more to us. And to the good neighbor who stayed up most of the night with us to keep him on his feet.

When trouble comes, we find things out about life and its worth. There ought to be some magic attitude that would keep us aware of such values the whole year through, in good-times or bad, so that we would react more deeply to friends and neighbors, family and surroundings.

Perhaps life lived at such a pitch would be a strain on the nervous system. I doubt it. I think we die a little during the placid lulls in our lives. We are keener, fiercer, richer when we face trouble and see something valued on the point of departing.

This weekend I watched a group of newcomers to Canada reclining on a public beach close to our cottage. Many of these newcomers had lived a long time behind the iron curtain. They enjoy and appreciate the freedom and abundance they find here in Canada—enjoy it far more than we natives do, who take so much of it for granted.

Life is a hazardous business—and nothing should be taken for granted. Each day that the sun rises should find us filled with gratitude to be alive and breathing, with friends and family close by, and work to do. We should live as if this were the last day granted to us. What a difference it would make!

The police of a big city were hot on the trail of an escaped convict. The constable a dozen pictures of the wanted man—grinning, full face. When they learned that the fugitive was heading for a small town, standing, sitting and in various poses, they called the local constable names.

"You send me a picture of that constable called back. "We got guy and I'll get him," the constable eleven of those crooks," he boasted excitedly, "and I guarantee to jug him the last one-before morning!"

Immediately, the city police mailed

D.V. Highlights

BY: EDITH DEBY

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Hartley, of Vancouver, spent several days in Drayton Valley last week. Mrs. Hartley, the former Doris Chapman, was particularly interested in the changes the last few years had brought to our town. She had taught in Tomahawk and was pleased to hear news of her many old friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Playford enjoyed a ten day stay in South Central Idaho. Mr. Playford says the weather was very hot, and when the occasional thunder storm came along it did just that and did not "talk" about it.

Our best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. David Maddock for a happy future. Mrs. Maddock is the former Miss Brenda Gittens.

Among the former Drayton Valley residents now living in Whitecourt are: "Mac" and Bill in the meat department of Dumont General Store; Arnold Larkin with Trudeau; and Police Chief, Andy Adams.

the bases loaded late in the game to turn what previously looked like defeat into certain victory. Wenzel got the bye into the finals while the Panthers and the Semis went at each other in the semis.

The Panthers put on a great rally to take the final game. Down 3-1 and 4-2 early in the game, they came back to make it 7-7 with one inning to play. They drove in two runs in the last inning and there was the ball game. Paul Joyce was the winning pitcher while Jerry Hudal was twirling for the losers. The Drayton Valley Athletic Association served refreshments to all competitors after the final game.

A very fine little trophy is being put up by Stan Gochel for the most outstanding Pee Wee baseball player in town. The winner will be decided later at a meeting of all coaches involved. A choice to the satisfaction of all concerned may not be too easy to pick as there were a host of fine young ball players playing in this league during the past months. It was a good season, perhaps schedules were not adhered to as closely as they might have been but under the circumstances this could not be helped, however, I think every youngster played his fill of baseball and after all if they are happy, I guess everyone else is also.

He married Miss Audrey Salgon at Calgary. They have three children, Valerie nine years old, Gregory, aged five and Janet, aged three.

This community will miss Mr. and Mrs. Payne as they leave and wish them the best of luck in their new home in northwestern B.C.

Golf Tournament

Drayton Valley Golf Club conducted their Annual Open Golf Tournament at the club links west of town on Sunday, August 27th, with 62 golfers participating in the tournament.

The Championship Trophy, put up by Electrical Contracting and Machinery Co. Ltd., was won by Jack Reedy, of Edmonton. Runner up in that event was B. Bruce, of Red Deer. Consolation winner was Percy Wells, of Edson.

First Flight winner was R. Goetz, of Edmonton, runner up was John Switzer of Edson, with consolation going to Dr. Zeeb, of Edson. In the Second Flight, winner was Del Perry, of D.V., runner up was Chris Hunter of D.V., and consolation went to Billy Rose, also of D.V.

The Third Flight was won by Dick Gochel, runner up was Len Charbonneau and Consolation winner was Ted Will, all of Drayton Valley. The Fourth Flight was taken by Drayton Valley golfer also, with Jack Bar winner, Buddy Washburn runner up and consolation went to Bob Barker.

Winner of the Fifth Flight was Wally Jensen, runner up was Hank Christensen, and consolation Wayne McLaren, all members of the Drayton Valley Club. Sixth Flight winner was Elmer Woods of Drayton Valley. Runner up was Pop Galmick, of Edson and Pop's son, Stan Galmick won the consolation. In the Seventh Flight, won at way S. McConnell, of Drayton Valley, runner up was R. Switzer, of Edson and consolation went to J. North of Drayton Valley.

Two showers happened the golfers but did not interfere too seriously with tournament play. New hand has been put on the greens and golfers expect that the course is in very good shape. Bruce Lee catered for the golfers taking part in the tournament.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

An automobile accident on the main highway south of Drayton Valley recently. Mrs. Bob Landers was driving west on the Lodgepole road to go on her berry-picking with a carload of others when the car suddenly swerved out of control and upset. It is thought that a tire blew out, causing the car to go out of control on the gravel road.

Mrs. Landers was knocked unconscious, and was still unconscious when she was taken to Drayton Valley Municipal Hospital. Her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ken Landers was also injured and hospitalized, and Bob Landers uncle, Jack Heppner, aged 74, was also quite severely injured and required hospitalization. The four other occupants of the car, Mr. and Mrs. Desjardins and two small children received minor injuries and did not require hospital care.

The accident occurred on Wednesday, August 23rd.

Mrs. Landers, a teacher in the Violet Grove school, will not be able to teach her one to third grade classes until a week or so after school has opened.

INDIAN DAY

Heading south down Highway 13, we were passing through Brackley, near Fort McLeod, on the Pagan Indian Reservation at the time of their Annual Indian Day celebration. This very fine group of Indians puts on a sober, and thrilling show, mostly for themselves, but outsiders are welcome to attend. Some of the handicrafts, particularly the beadwork and the decorated robes were very good.

Colorfully decorated teepees on the Pagan Reservation.

Mrs. Ruth Bad Eagle and her family in their tent. Her son, aged fifteen, at the far right, had just finished doing some very excellent needlework. Many of the boys and men, young and old, still wear their hair long.

Painting Display

Fine Arts, where the student paintings. Miss Palmer shows very much talent. A display of her work she did during the course at Banff is on display in the window of the Triple S, Variety Store. With one exception, her painting of a friend, "Gail Hughes", of Edmonton, who was taking a course in creative writing at the school, the canvases are for sale.

Exterior view of the very fine new Twilight Bowl building. Built by Bachholz Construction, the attractively faced building parks up the entire street. This very excellent shot was taken by Curt's Studio.

Her work on display include, "Sun Dance Canyon", a view of Banff National Park, "Nativity" an art student from Montreal, "Mice at Carmona", "Parade of a Hat", Juan Ball and, an art student from New York, "Friends" a painting of two small blonde haired girls, "A Dancer" a portrait of a girl from California, "Tree stumps", an impressionist painting, with an arrangement of Indian Paintbrush and "Lime, a Girl of Fourteen as well as the portrait of her friend, "Gail Hughes".

Margo's comic concluded on August 12th.

From Scoop's Notebook

Sitting at the Texaco Station in Bowchert, Alberta, far get on the way south an unusually polite young service station attendant noticed something about Drayton Valley about us, (maybe it's that prosperous, oil-rich air!) and said, "Are you folks from Drayton Valley?" When we proudly assured him that we were he went on to say that his grand parents live there.

Turned out he was young Dave Dunington, grandson of Mr and Sketch of Bad Eagle with his regalia.

The telephone rang is the real Mrs. Henry Dunington, of Campbell estate officer and a soft female voice corner, son of Stanley Dunington, asked, "Do you all marry?" Dave's euphoric manner impressed us very much. We feel that his grandparents might well be proud of him.

District Personalities

KENNETH AND DANITA BOLING

Kenneth and Danita Boling are well-known to residents of this area as they have been in Drayton Valley since 1964 and have been very active in many community enterprises during that time.

Danita was born in Williams, California. Her father was a large ranch operator and was also a road contractor. He built some of the earliest hardtop roads in the State of California and Nevada. He used twenty-mule teams, which are now becoming historically famous, and later was one of the first large users of trucks in construction work. Mrs. Boling's maternal grandfather was a judge, well-known to California courts of law. Mrs. Boling attended the University of California at Berkeley, where she received her degree.

At one time she was a Universal Studio player, following which she became a professional model.

Kenneth was born in Monmouth, Illinois at the age of 16. After coming to the West Coast in the Los Angeles Harbor area he got his pilot's licence to operate tugboats and operated tug in the harbor, and then operated ferryboats to Catalina Island. Part of the work of the ferry to Catalina was the transporting of material grandfather was a judge, well-known to California courts of law. Mrs. Boling attended the University of California at Berkeley, where she received her degree.

Fleet. Mr. Boling says that the identical simulated battle plan that the fleet worked out for a simulated invasion of Pearl Harbor, using a fleet of carrier based attack planes was copied by the Japanese in their December 7th, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor some ten years later. The fleet called it "Battle Plan 14" and in some way the Japanese obtained plans for the battle action and used it against the Americans with devastating effect in the bombardment of Pearl Harbor. Kenneth received his discharge from the Marine Corps in 1952.
